

I go to the kitchen

I take a small spoon for the salt.

I take out a colander and place it on my sink

I choose a large pot.

I take a pack of pasta and look at the cooking time.

I pour cold water into the saucepan. I leave about a finger's width of space.

I place the pot on the stove.

I turn on the cooking plate and set the power to high.

I wait for the water to be boiling.

I monitor the water. It must not overflow.

I add a teaspoon of salt and pour in all the pasta.

I set a timer for six to ten minutes.

I stir the pasta from time to time

I taste a piece of pasta to see if it is cooked. If it is too hard, I let it cook a little longer.

I turn off the cooktop.

I pour the pasta into the colander.

I put the pasta, without water, into the pot.

I pour tomato sauce, or other sauce, on the pasta.

I eat while it's hot
